about BioFlorida

The voice of Florida's bioscience industry

BioFlorida represents 200 member companies and research organizations in the biotechnology, pharmaceutical and medical device fields. Members include biomedical R&D companies, medical device manufacturing, clinics and hospitals, academia, government and non-profit organizations, and industry service and product companies. In 2010, the BioFlorida Institute was established to provide support for K-12 science education, workforce development programs, professional training, and industry and research information.

For more information on BioFlorida member benefits and programs, call 561-653-3839 or visit our website at bioflorida.com.
